

Carry On Spying – The British Technique – Cold War Intelligence and Espionage

Eleanor Brown. Saturday 14th October 2.30pm

Eleanor Brown, Assistant Curator at the Combined Military Services Museum has had a life-long fascination with spies, and the dirty tricks and traitors of the intelligence services throughout the 20th century. She has made a study of the tactics of spies in both the British and Soviet services including M15, M16, KGB and the brave agents of the Special Operations Executive.

With a particular interest in double agents, Eleanor will be discussing spy craft, and will show gadgets and techniques deployed in the field by some of the most daring and exciting British agents of the Cold War period
